

Bluebird 2.0

Bluebird is a progress-based to-do list & focus timer app on iPhone and iPad, it helps people get started easier and make progress.

Why we build Bluebird

It's hard to get started.

We want to help people take the first step with an integrated and joyful focus experience. We present their progress in a visualized way to let them know how far they've come, which also makes it easier to get started again.

It's easy to get lost.

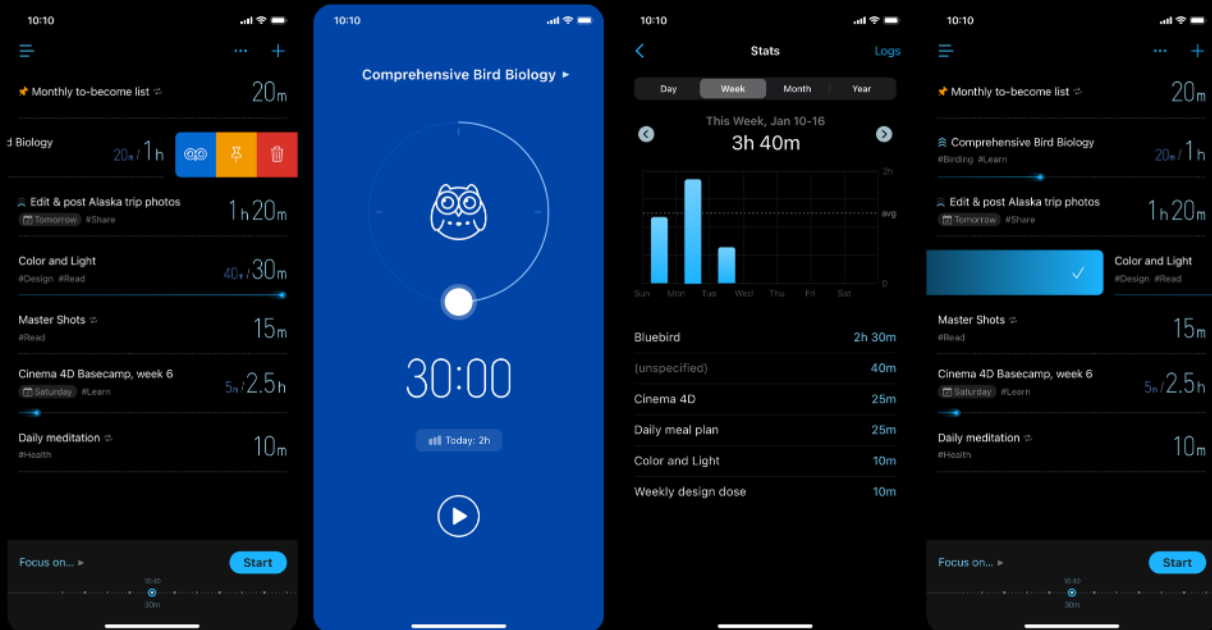

We want to help people slow down with our clear and polished design. When we're less stressed, we set better priorities, we work less hard while achieving more.

We get further.

It's more than being productive.

We make progress by walking along the path step by step, by getting a little better each day. To-dos are our to-becomes, we become what we repeat.

Getting started and making progress with Bluebird is simple and fun.

About Us

We're a two-person indie team, we craft apps that bring joy to people's lives.

We strive for perfection because we take polished details as small acts of love, they make people smile, and they make us happy.

We're curious people who never stop learning. The developer and the designer complete each other when we combine our professional strengths.

We're a small team, we choose quality over speed. Little by little we become a lot, step by step we get ahead.

Bluebird is the first app we made.
